

World map showing the geographic distribution of within-population coexistence (blue dots) and geographic differentiation (orange triangles) for 1000 randomly selected species. The map shows a high density of both markers in North America, Europe, and East Asia, with fewer markers in South America, Africa, and Australia.

Legend:

- Within-population coexistence
- Geographic differentiation

